ABOUT

Singer-songwriter Alison Albrecht combines the likes of pop, folk, and soul with sharply insightful songwriting to consistently captivate audiences from concert venues to living rooms. With a sound that is bold yet ethereal, Alison draws inspiration from the likes of Carole King, Sara Bareilles, and Maggie Rogers.

Raised in Michigan, Alison began booking regular gigs at age 12 and released her first EP at 15. Since then, she has opened for major acts such as The Steve Miller Band, Troye Sivan, and Charlie Puth, to name a few.

Most recently, Alison rose to the Top 36 on Season 24 of NBC's The Voice as a member of Team Reba McEntire.

Her upcoming single, "Lifeline," an upbeat, indie-pop anthem, is set to release on October 25, 2024.
